

CONSUMER INDIVIDUAL FUND FACT SHEET

PURPOSE

The Consumer Involvement Fund (CIF) is a reimbursement program that provides partial funding for individuals with developmental disabilities, their family members, or guardians to attend professional and informational conferences, legislative advocacy skills training events, public forums, hearings, and other similar activities. The Council is committed to investing financial resources in people with disabilities and family members to further the agenda of creating inclusive communities throughout Alabama.

Many policy, procedure, and program decisions affecting the lives of people with developmental disabilities are made without the meaningful involvement of the people who are most affected by those decisions. Often, they lack either the opportunity to participate or the experience which would enable their meaningful participation in such events as Board meetings of service agencies, state and national conferences which policy recommendations are developed, city council meetings, consumer advocacy meetings and training events, tax, abatement hearings, zoning hearings, etc.

The Consumer Involvement Fund (CIF) is designed to empower people with developmental disabilities and family members with the opportunities, experiences, resources and information they need to participate meaningfully in decisions that are being made which affect their lives. Through the Consumer Involvement Fund, people with disabilities and their families can access the information and educational events which will enable them to participate effectively in the decision making process by being involved with agencies, services providers and consumer advocacy group.
